Photos are powerful

Flickr allows you to share photos with your friends or even the whole world!

They communicate feelings, thoughts, concepts, and ideas

Sets

Flickr lets you collect related images

The same way you might put all the photos of your trip to Saskatchewan in one physical album

Maybe you want a set for your pets

a set for your cousin's second birthday party

There are many ways to search and share photos on Flickr into sets, be sure to tag them.

GeekSugar has a great slide show on how to

Tagging

s are simply words that describe the photos

When you put your photos
into sets, be sure to tag them!

And we don't mean with spray paint...

Tags allow people to search across the photos

...regular tagging, but with location information

To test this out, try searching for the word haircut on Flickr.

Geotagging

Flickr has a nifty video about geotagging.

You can even see a couple dozen pictures from Why, Arizona ^{Seriously.}

Friends and Contacts

Create friends

It wouldn't be the web without other people!

Create friends and contacts to share photos

When friends upload photos, you get notified

Private

VS.

Public

Make others public

Keep some photos private

Make others public

Or all public, or all private

It's up to you!

Share even private photos by sending an invitation
